By R. K. Martin

A somewhat abbreviated edition of Frank Shaulcross's "Big Red Team" scored a 28-16 win over R.M.C. at the Stadium on Saturday after sixty minutes of very interesting rugby before a crowd of approximately five thousand. As the score implies, it was a fast open game with both teams giving a fine display of offensive football.

The principal interest in the game from the McGill point of view lay in the showing of the McGill colts, several of whom received their baptism of fire. Under the circumstances, the younger redmen did exceptionally well after the first three minutes when an error of fumbles gave R.M.C. a touch-down and a short-lived lead. From then on McGill displayed a fast, clever attack, coupled with a stone-wall line that stopped the cadets dead in their tracks time after time.

Tremain started at centre-half and his old team-mates who found great difficulty in stopping his charges while he consistently out-kicked Darling, the Kingston booster. Lovering proved hard to stop on his plunges while he combined smoothly with Doherty on a number of fine end-runs throughout the game. While Tremain was off Lovering, also took over the kicking duties and did remarkably well in the department, getting both height and distance. Doherty's strength lay in his dodging ability which enables him to step out of tackles with comparative ease on his sensational twisting runs which were so much in evidence on Saturday.

Two new men, Granger and Petch, started at the outside wing position, and both were very much in the line-light with their hard tackling.

At the beginning of the third quarter with the score standing at 17-5 in favor of McGill, Coach Shaulcross created somewhat of a sensation by sending out the entire Intermediate team with the addition of Kitzwiler. On this occasion the seconds made a speedy exit due to an R.M.C. touch-down in the last minute of play, but after the seniors had sent the count soaring again, they reappeared in the final quarter and finished out the rest of the game. During this period, they led their own in great style, and Stockwell and Ritchie made several nice gains through the Cadet line.

It was during their second tenure of office that the highlight of the entire game occurred. McGill were in possession of the R.M.C. ten-yard line. They tried an inside kick, and "Windy" Smith, the sensational running half of the Cadets, caught the ball and streaked across his goal-line. No one dreamed of anything more than an averted rouge, but Smith's speed soon carried him past the entire McGill team, who seemed powerless to stop him and he was left with an open road down the right sideline. A run of 110 yards is a rare enough occurrence in any company but against a team of such high calibre, it is nothing short of extraordinary.

Although hopelessly beaten from the start, the R.M.C. team played a fast, keen game, and never once let up. Their halves, Darling, Molson, and Smith turned in fine performances despite the hard tackling they received throughout the game. The Cadet tackling, however, was not nearly as deadly as usual, while the kicking formation was not quite what it might have been. Darling seemed to stand a little too close to the scrumage for safety, and his kicks were often blocked either wholly or partially.

"Bruds" Bazin played most of the time at quarter, but in a few minutes he was on the field. Brown, the freshman quarter, took hold in fine style and should prove invaluable next year.

A series of fumbles put the Cadets ahead after the initial kick-off, but touchdowns by Tremain, Doherty, and Lovering followed in quick succession, and at half-time the red and white

Street Cars in Kingston are Painted Blue

The night was dark; a wind whistled through the cold grey building; shadowy figures moved hither and thither, fitted here and there, carrying cylindrical containers in their right hand; whispered conversations; a hoarse order from a man who was apparently on guard; the lighting of sundry dark, muffled lanterns; a few minutes of stealthily but frenzied work, and finally a quick getaway as the footsteps of a stranger were heard approaching.

The scene, of course, the car barns at Kingston. Last Friday night, several students met there, with cans of blue enamel, and with hasty daubs began brushing on the newly-painted yellow surface of the Kingston Tramways Service's rolling stock, sundry hieroglyphics which when patched together were found to be huge letters bearing out the fact that the students were quite proud of their Alma Mater.

The result was that on Saturday morning the street cars wended their way through the heavy traffic with a new blue enamel finish, and swearing allegiance for evermore to the famous university situated in the city where limestone was created.

And now, after all this trouble on the part of the advertising geniuses, the city threatens to get 1000 dollars from the university.

Can you imagine it?

VARSITY LOSES TO MCGILL IN SOCCER

Red and White Wins Exciting Game by Two Goals

BOTH DEFENCES GOOD

McGill Has Excellent Chance For Championship—Play R.M.C. Next Saturday

(Special to McGill Daily)

Toronto, Oct. 23.—In an exciting game played on the Varsity Campus yesterday, McGill soccer team defeated Varsity, by the score of two to nil, and as a result made a formidable bid for the championship.

On the run of play, McGill had a slight edge, and scored one goal in each period. Watt netted in the first period when he intercepted a rebound of McBroome's shot which hit the crossbar.

Play in the first period was from end to end, each team attacking in turn and the McGill goal, Ross Davidson made several spectacular saves.

In the second half McGill gradually wore down their opponents, and towards the end Varsity weakened slightly.

McGill goal was very fortunate on one occasion when Ross Davidson was penalized for carrying the ball more than three steps. Varsity took the kick and scored, but the goal was disallowed, because the player taking the kick passed back instead of forward.

Later Toronto were penalized in the final area and Maule made no mistake when he scored on a penalty kick putting McGill two in the lead. From this on McGill were masters of the game.

The defence of each team played better soccer than the forwards, and Giovanni and Maule were outstanding for McGill and Ferguson and King for Toronto.

A good crowd witnessed the game and added to the exciting struggle was the theatrical performance of the referee.

The teams: McGill—Davidson, Giovanni, Maule, Violette, Helwig, Estall, McKinnon, Watt, McBroome, Gavin, Mollott.

Toronto—Cox, Hadley, Ferguson, Cameron, King, Jackson, Downing, Clements, Kyle, Withers, Evans.

Toronto have now finished their games and have won one and lost one. McGill have won the only game they have played, they meet R.M.C., who lost to Toronto, next Saturday, and a win or a draw will give them the championship.

LEE TO SPEAK AT UNION GRILL

An opportunity will be given to all who are interested to hear R. S. Lee M.A. at the Grill Room of the Union at 1:30 today. A.I. are invited to bring their trays across the hall. Lee will speak on student conditions in Europe in connection with the International Student Service of which he is the travelling secretary. (Roy S. Lee M.A., B.A. comes from Oxford and is making a tour of Canadian Universities.)

RUGGER TEAM BEAT VARSITY IN FIRST GAME

Carry 20 Point Lead Into Return Contest

SPLENDID PLAY

'Varsity Put up Stubborn Fight—McGill Backs in Brilliant Form

In one of the best exhibitions of rugger that has been seen here for a very long time, McGill University beat the University of Toronto at McGill Stadium by 20 pts. (4 goals) to 0. This was the first intercollegiate match with Varsity, the second being played at Toronto next Saturday, and since in the event of each team winning one match, the result will be decided by the total points. McGill have a very good chance for the championship.

The McGill team were playing really first class football and their improvement on their form of the previous Saturday was astonishing. The outstanding feature was the combination of the backs. They were working like the proverbial book, and their play was thoughtful too. On several occasions the man with the ball, seeing that his next man was carefully marked, gave a long pass to the wing, thus making a good opening.

In the loose the McGill forwards were most useful; they were quick onto the ball, and never gave the other team a chance to retrieve a fumble. In the scrum, however, Varsity got the ball the majority of times, chiefly because they had 5 men as opposed to 7, but they lost the advantage by their scrum half being slow, and Starkey, the McGill half, rarely gave him the chance to get the ball back to his three quarters.

Although the McGill team were definitely their superiors, the Varsity men put up a splendid fight, and it must be remembered that they were only playing fourteen men for most of the game, as Wilson was forced to leave the field with an injured knee after the first ten minutes. Also Batty, their best man couldn't play. The Varsity three quarters played a nice game, but they didn't get all the chances they should have had, since they were not given the ball when it came from the scrum. Their best two players were Goldenberg, the left wing three quarter, and Burton, a forward.

The McGill three quarters started directly after the kick-off, and pressed hard. The Toronto three quarters relieved the pressure with a nice run, but it was stopped by McGill.

FRESHMAN SPEAKING CONTEST THURSDAY

New Men to Compare Their Oratorical Powers

The impromptu speaking contest for the Bovey Shield will be held on Thursday afternoon at 4 p.m. in the Union Ballroom. Contrary to the usual procedure the contestants will be given time to prepare their subject, for the subject upon which they are to speak will be published in the Daily on Thursday morning.

Any men who are in their first year at the University or who have never been at McGill before, are eligible to compete. An exception however is drawn in the case of those who, although in their first year at this University already hold a B.A. degree. Grammar and pronunciation are of primary importance. The shield however will not be awarded unless the speaker comes up to the required standard. A candidate may speak in French, providing, however, that he gives three days notice to the president of the 'J.U.'.

The judges at the contest will be Colonel Wilfred Bovey, donor of the shield, Prof. W. Goforth, and the President of the Literary and Debating Society.

FRESHMEN

All Freshmen are expected to compete in the 'Freshmen Public Speaking Contest' for the Bovey Shield, which is to be held on Thurs. Oct. 27th, at 4 o'clock in the Union Ball room. Entry lists are in the Union Office and on the notice board of the Arts Building.

MORGAN JONES UNABLE TO SPEAK AT LABOUR CLUB

The Executive of the McGill Labour Club expresses great regret that it has been compelled to cancel the meeting which was to be held at 5:15 today and at which Morgan Jones was scheduled to speak.

Mr. Jones informed the Club at a late hour last night that he had been forced to take an earlier train so that he might make his appointment in Buffalo on Tuesday morning.

Roy Lee Speaks to McGill S.C.A. Supper Meeting

Roy S. Lee spoke at a well attended supper meeting of the S.C.A. in Strathcona Hall yesterday at 4:30. Lee is a secretary of the International Student Service and has been for the last two years working in Europe amongst distressed students. The story which he portrayed was most enlightening, showing how in supplying the material needs of these students there was a great work being done in the removal of the old tradition national hatreds. Perhaps the students had lost faith in themselves but now that they were able to continue they were finding a better outlook toward life.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS CLUB HELD MEETING

Club Officers Elected—Top- ics for Session Discussed

The opening meeting of the League of Nations Club was held last night in the S.C.A. room of Strathcona Hall. D. G. Henderson presiding, M. Berkman was nominated convener and D. G. Henderson and Michael Rubenstein were appointed to the League of Nations Club committee. All business for the coming year was discussed and topics to be presented during the session.

(c) Japanese View.

It was decided that all other meetings of this club should be left open for the present. The main object of the League of Nations Club is to discuss all matters dealing with the League of Nations. The following members of the club were present:—D. G. Henderson, C. Herliethon, Michael Rubenstein, J. Snyder, C. Wolfson, D. Maklyana, M. Bronstein.

VARSITY WINS RELAY RACE ON SATURDAY

(Special to McGill Daily)
(By Jack Blomer, Captain of McGill Track Team)

Kingston, Oct. 22.—At half time during the rugby game this afternoon the relay race was run off, as the last event in the intercollegiate Track Meet which had taken place on Friday. Toronto won, McGill came second, and Queen's third, giving the following total for the track meet: Toronto, 79; McGill, 50; Queen's, 6.

Hanlon, Springings, E. E. Brown, Hands were running for McGill.

The draw gave Queen's the pole with Toronto in the 2nd lane and McGill in 3rd. Murphy, of Queen's took the inner lane on the curve, with Fitzpatrick and Hanlon running widely. Hanlon led on the back stretch, with Fitz coasting behind and off the last curve, he sprinted past the McGill man for a lead of 20 yards. Springings picked up 5 yards on Somerville, the Toronto second man, with Woogor some 40 yards behind. In the third lap all men got off to a perfect start, with Mo. Mitchell running smoothly in the lead. E. E. Brown gained on the back stretch, but weakened near the last sprint, while Johnston of Queen's picked up ten yards. The last lap found Christie, the Toronto anchor man 30 yards in the lead and Hands running easily for second place. Thompson of Queen's came third.

Toronto's time was 3:29 2-5 secs.

CONGRESS OF MEDICAL MEN HERE TO-DAY

American Association of Medical Col- leges Opens Session

DR. MARTIN

Is Meeting for First Time in Canada With Canadian President

The Medical Building is to-day the congregating point for delegates from practically every Medical College in America, when the American Association of Medical Colleges meets in Canada for the first time in its history, with Dr. Martin, Dean of Medicine at McGill, in the chair. The Convention is lasting for three days, an extensive program calling for colloquia in the mornings, clinics in the afternoons, and social functions in the evenings.

This morning, papers will be given on the teaching of Psychology. Obstetrics the anatomy, Dr. Chipman of the faculty of Medicine giving that on Obstetrics, Professor Whitnall will open the discussion on the "Place of Living Anatomy in Medical Schools" and the morning program will end with papers on the organization of Medical schools.

Following this the Association is touring the Medical Building and taking lunch at the Royal Victoria Hospital. After lunch they will visit Gynaecological and Obstetrical Pavilion, the University Medical Clinic and the Pathological Institute, where Professor Ortel will speak on "Teaching Pathology."

That evening they will attend a dinner at the Mount Royal Hotel where Sir Arthur Currie will deliver a speech of welcome. Following this they will see the famous "underseas" film prepared by the Smithsonian Institute.

Tomorrow papers will be read on "Extra-Mural Clinical Teaching," "The Teaching of Medicine," "Physical Diagnosis," "Internal Medicine." Professor Howard will lead the discussion. The visitors will lunch at the Montreal General Hospital, following this with a tour of the building and an inspection of the McGill Biological Building. That evening they will have an executive session following dinner at the Mount Royal Hotel.

On the last day of their convention, the visiting doctors will wind up their program with papers on "What to Teach and what to Skip," "Demands on the Medical Practitioner in the South," "An Experiment in the Teaching of the History of Medicine," "An Experiment with the Curriculum" and "Report of Women in Medicine."

MEDICINE FRESHMAN CHOOSE EXECUTIVE

Five Dollars Levy on Each Member of Class

Allan Fleming was elected President of Medicine '32 at a full meeting of the class last Saturday, being closely contested for that office by Brooks, who was later elected Vice-President. Miss Maytum was elected secretary and D. Macdonald treasurer, while Bowley and Nelson will be the years representatives to the Dance and Dinner committees, respectively.

Macdonald's report of the committee investigating details for the Freshman-Sophomore banquet led to a very heated discussion a close vote finally deciding the issue in favour of the Venetian Garden's offer, which includes entertainment. Five dollars was decided to be sufficient levy on each member of the class to cover the cost of the banquet. The committee in charge will be D. Macdonald, Nelson, and J. Sult.

Following the meeting it was announced by the committee that the members of the class are expected to pay their five dollars as soon as possible to any member of the executive or of the committee.

MED. RUGBY TEAM

The final practice before the game will be held today at 4 p.m. All men who have turned out before are asked to be at this practice. Kinley, Greenblatt, Gibbons, Flynn, Reid, Abamson, Weinraub, Zimmerman, Copling, Tarbox, Woodgruff, Luke, Gardner, Mullinsky, etc. are asked to attend.

Union House Informal to be Held on Friday

Colonel Wilfred Bovey has signified his intention of attending the first formal dance to be held at McGill this session. The informal will take place on Friday, October 28th.

Geoff. Simpson's orchestra, after concluding a very successful engagement at Tadoussac is in an excellent position to supply music for this informal.

Miss Honey promises that the refreshments served buffet fashion in the cafeteria will be a revelation to all. There will also be a liberal supply of punch.

Tickets for this important function are now obtainable from class presidents. Reserve your ticket and your girl early.

BRITISH LABOUR IS NON-SOVIET

Morgan Jones M.P., Spoke Last Night

PEOPLES' FORUM

British Workers Are Very Law-abiding in Ordeals

"The Labor Party does not, and never has, accepted the accusation of its opponents that it holds the same political principles as Soviet Russia," declared Morgan Jones, M.P., at the Peoples' Forum last night when he spoke upon "Some Recent Happenings in British Politics." "But," he continued, "in the interests of self-government, it is for the people of Russia to say in which form they wish to govern themselves, not for people in other countries."

Prof. Carleton Stanley introduced the speaker to a representative audience who were very appreciative of the speaker's remarks and the just manner in which he responded to the most searching questions which were fired at him, at the close of what was, by far the clearest and most well balanced exposition of the controversial political events that have recently happened in Britain.

"During the war, the parties in power made extravagant promises as to their aims and ideals that they would enforce when the chaos was over," began Morgan Jones in his speech. "Public opinion was in a state of generous anticipation at the end of this period. At which time Lloyd George thought it best to call a general election. This caused a split in the Liberal Party, and in this breach it became possible for the Labor Party to widen. Whereas it had formerly been composed of manual laborers, it now took in all who were interested. This men and women of goodwill found and felt that such confirmation of the ideals of reconstruction could only be obtained in the Labor Party."

Those in power the idea of a new world vision began to bore. Idealism was becoming weak and it has practically disappeared. An attempt at retrenchment was made in industry at the expense of the workers. This came in the miners' trouble of 1921, when the government's own commission, the Sankey Commission was not adopted. The miners were defeated and since then there has been more or less deferred warfare until 1926.

The commission of experts, who did not represent either the owners or the workers, in handing in their report in 1926 stated that the real cause of the depression of the coal trade was the fact that the world was producing more coal than was being consumed, not only in Britain but in other countries too. In the war when there were only old men to work in the mines.

BLUE AND WHITE ARE BLANKED IN STRENUOUS GAME

Harry Batstone Kicks Queen's to Victory Over Varsity

SNYDER FUMBLES

Safety Touch and Rouge in Last Period Give Tricolor 3 to 0 Win

Kingston, Oct. 23.—(Special to McGill Daily)—Playing Toronto to a standstill in the last eight minutes of the game, when the Blue and White were visibly tired and harassed, the Tricolor of Queen's swept into second berth in the intercollegiate rugby race on Saturday afternoon against a renewed and fighting squad from the Queen city.

The final score of 3-0 was indicative of the closeness of the struggle, and it was not until the final minutes of play that the tenseness of hope and disappointment among the spectators was swept away, and the Blue and White was at last relegated to the unenviable position of a team with two losses and no victories to its credit.

As happened once before, when Queen's played against McGill last week, the result was in doubt until the very last and the crowd even thought as they had at the Molson Stadium, that the game would again result in a tie.

And a tie it should have been, if the actual showing of the teams is any criterion for right through the game, there was not a single break, such as a fumble, through the line to give the advantage to any particular team. With this state of affairs in mind, it is almost impossible not to give both teams the credit of having played one of the most closely contested games in the intercollegiate this year. At McGill it was different. Both teams got several breaks before the final play was put over, and therefore the calibre of the teams in relation to each other was difficult to gauge. But on Saturday, the playing of an even game, with no breaks for either side, naturally meant that both teams were equal in both brains and brawn.

When Queen's met Toronto, this Saturday at the Varsity Stadium, they will have at least a moral advantage over Toronto, but on the other hand, the Blue and White will be fighting with their backs to the wall, in no mood to give another and crucial game to their opponents. Toronto has to win some time this season, and there is no reason why they should not satisfy.

MACCABBAEANS WILL SOON OPEN SEASON

President and Vice President to be Elected

The Maccabbaean Circle will hold its first meeting of the year on October 30th, at two p.m. It is expected that Rabbi H. J. Stern of the Temple Emmanuel will address the meeting.

Two members are to be elected to the executive, namely the president and vice-president. These vacancies are due to the fact that Frank Godine has gone to the Université de Montreal, and accordingly has resigned his office; S. J. Simlova, elected vice-president, has also resigned due to the fact that he is not returning to college this year. These offices must be filled and the election will be held at this meeting.

The Maccabbaean Circle, founded in 1906, has always been the officially recognized medium of Jewish thought and expression at college. Meetings are held every three weeks in the Union. Every Hebrew student of the university is invited to become a member. The activities of this organization are manifold, consisting, however, in the main, of cultural, literary and social activities.

The meeting has been called for two o'clock on account of the fact that the program will be lengthened by the elections.

STUDY GROUPS

All women students who wish to join study groups are requested to meet at 1:30 p.m. today in the R.V.C. Common Room to arrange definite time and place for group meetings.

THE MEDICAL CONVENTION

CANADA and McGill University are being honored today by the presence for the first time in Canada, of the Association of American Medical Colleges, which opens its session this morning in the Assembly of the Faculty of Medicine. Presiding over its deliberations and studies will be its first Canadian President, Dr. C. M. Martin, Dean of the Faculty of Medicine at McGill.

The choice of McGill University as the venue of the first Canadian meeting of the convention, and the election of a Canadian and McGill dean as its president is a criterion of the place McGill holds in the medical world.

We have great pleasure in extending cordial welcome to all the delegates attending this important convention. It is sincerely hoped that their discussions will be extremely fruitful.

NOT NECESSARILY WEAKER

Women's Brains may be as Good as Men's—Cornell Daily Sun

The brain of a woman need not be inferior to that of a man is the conclusion of Dr. James W. Dapez, curator of the Bart G. Wilder brain collection at Cornell, who has made a study of over 2,000 brains. Whether or not the brains of both sexes are equal the fact remains that the brain of man has functioned more readily and more often than that of the gentler sex which has been content to inspire rather than execute.

Woman until recent years has never exerted her cortical substance but has been content to gain prestige by means of cosmetics, fashionable clothes, and beauty, sometimes inherited and more often acquired. Man is naturally jealous of his position and has always considered and emphasized the fact that women are weaker mentally and otherwise. Science, the son of man, may some time prove his undoing.

Granted that women have brains equal to men it is only fair that some evidence of it be shown and that means making beauty secondary. Personally, we prefer the latter many out of self protection.

ing the public reputation of the College?

The executive, it is true, put forward a few names, but these were unknown to the majority of people present, and in any case, are freshmen the best judges of platform ability? This statement is not meant to be a reflection upon either the class of '21 or the debaters chosen yesterday, but we would still point out that this lax method resulted in the omission of a student of experience as well as ability who has been successful on a previous team. Moreover, the choice of the teams against which we compete is not left to any such haphazard circumstances.

If this is a matter that calls only for knowledge, experience and judgment, surely it should be entirely in the hands of the Executive of the Society. If, on the other hand, it is primarily the concern of the women students as a whole and not to be decided arbitrarily, the method of election should be such as to give opportunity for the expression of a duty considered opinion from every student. Why not a federal ballot following suggestions of candidates in the "Daily", so that voters would not be ignorant of any of the available material? Or why not a series of trial debates before the Intercollegiate so that special talent for a particular subject might be discovered? We hope that this matter which is of so much importance to the College record, and which should arouse general interest will not again be hurriedly rushed through at the beginning of a meeting held for other purposes.

Yours truly,

H. E. Archdale,

G. C. Donnelly,

L. C. Preaves,

A. K. Moffat.

were comfortably ahead to the tune of 17-5. The Intermediates then made their bow and the Cadets immediately blocked a McGill kick, and enabled McGil to add five more points to his team's total. After the Seniors had been brought back to the scene, they speedily made their presence felt by scoring on a fine sixty-yard run, in which each of the McGill backs carried the ball in turn with Doherty crossing the line for another score.

McGill's total was soon increased to 28 when Darling fumbled on his 20 yard line and on the next play, Lovelace scored right end for 15 yards to put the ball within easy scoring distance from where Tremblay went over for his second score of the game.

With such a commanding lead, the Seniors were relaxed, and Gordon Hughes' proteges sent in for the second time. Even so with the exception of Smith's long run, the ball remained in R.M.C. territory, due to some inspired play by the Intermediates.

tackling. McGill took the offensive again, and the backs worked very well but the ball was dropped about 5 yards from the Toronto line. Graeme, however, managed to pick it up from the loose, and scored near the corner. He converted his own try with a good kick.

After the kick-off, Varsity pressed hard, but McGill managed to keep them out, and soon got back to the Toronto half. After a little Kinkaid gave a good pass to Angevine, who scored near the posts. Graeme again converted. Varsity once more attacked hard and got the ball over the McGill line, but Nelson touched it down.

After half time the play was in mid-field for some time until Noble broke away and scored a very fine run. This try was also converted by Graeme.

The Toronto forwards then got the ball away and later Goldenberg made a well judged cross kick which nearly resulted in a score. The McGill men, however, soon got going again, and Graeme made a nice run. Burton, of Toronto, broke away from a line out and looked like getting a try, but Nelson stopped him with an excellent tackle. The McGill forwards brought the ball up the field again, and Kinkaid, one of the halves, scored the fourth try, which Graeme once more converted. From then till the end of the game, McGill continued to press but there was no more score.

The game was most satisfactory, and one thing which contributed in no small measure to this was the excellent refereeing of McGinn. He never let either side get an advantage from unfair play and still he didn't stop the game more than was necessary.

JACK WRIGHT
WON SINGLES
OVER NUNNS

Retained Intercollegiate Title Swamp-
ing Varsity Champion

LOST DOUBLES

Nunns and Martin, Varsity,
Beat McGill Pair in Four Sets

Jack Wright, captain and champion of the McGill tennis team, retained the intercollegiate singles title for the third time on Saturday when he defeated Gilbert Nunns, Varsity champion, in the final round of the 1927 tourney by scores of 6-2, 6-0 and 6-1. Wright was playing at the very top of his form and simply drove Nunns off the court with the utmost ease.

In the doubles the McGill representatives were not so fortunate, and the title went to the strong Varsity pair of Nunns and Martin, who defeated Wright and his partner McInerney after a close struggle at 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1. The play was exceptionally close during the first three sets, which might have been won by either team, and it was only the hard driving of Nunns and the splendid overhead play of the lanky Martin that brought victory to the visiting team.

As Varsity had made certain of the team championship on the previous day, chief interest centred in the final of the singles in which two of Canada's foremost players were competing. Wright, Canadian and intercollegiate champion and Canada's leading Davis Cup player, had not come up against the youthful Nunns, also a member of the Canadian Davis Cup squad, all summer, and much interest was focussed on the match.

Despite most disagreeable tennis weather the play that the two men put up was of a very high calibre. Nunns started badly, only winning three points in the first three games. He only won two games in the whole of the first set, both on his own service, and Wright, playing with confidence and accuracy, dominated the play.

The Varsity champion fared little better in the two ensuing sets. Wright's varied style of play seemed to disconcert his opponent, and Nunns' forehand drives, usually his most powerful weapon, were shaky and inaccurate. In the two last sets Nunns was only able to capture one game, and the triumph of the McGill champion playing his last game for his Alma Mater was complete.

In the doubles there was little to choose between the two teams. Both won their semi-finals in the morning with ease, and were prepared for a close tussle in the afternoon. Nunns and Martin proved themselves a formidable doubles combination. The former with his driver more under control than in the singles and the latter with his hard serving and smashing overhead play, found frequent holes in the defence of Wright and McInerney who had not played together prior to the present tourney. This factor proved the deciding factor in the match, as Wright was in his usual brilliant form, and McInerney ably held his end up against the Varsity players. The first three sets might easily have been won by either team, so close were they, and the margin of Varsity's victory was of the closest.

The final point score showed that Varsity had nearly doubled the score on their nearest rivals. McGill, although had the McGill pair won the doubles final the point score would have been very close. Varsity had 13 points, McGill, 7; U. of M., 5; Osgoode Hall, 5; R.M.C., 3; and Queen's 1.

Results of Saturday's play:
Singles (final) Jack Wright, McGill beat Gilbert Nunns, Varsity, 6-2, 6-0, 6-1.

Doubles (semi-finals) Nunns and Martin, Varsity, beat Valois and Couvrette, U. of M., 6-3, 6-3; Wright and McInerney, McGill, beat Brown and Connolly, Queen's, 6-0, 6-2.

Doubles (final) Nunns and Martin, Varsity, beat Wright and McInerney, McGill, 6-4, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1.

STRENUOUS GAME

themselves against Queen's on Saturday, and thereby put McGill well in the leading position.

After a long fought and determined struggle between the two teams, in which the play alternated from end to end, but rarely reached any danger points for either squad, the first safety touch occurred, not, as one of the newspapers claimed, in the third period, but towards the close of the last quarter, with but seven minutes to go. Queen's had possession of the ball on the Toronto 40 yard line, and Batstone kicked on third down. The ball landed on the goal line, and was fumbled by the catcher, and as the Queen's wings pushed up, Varsity backs had to run back of the standards and fall on the ball to avoid a touch by the kicker, who was hard on the heels of his wing.

With the delicious shouts of their rooters urging them on, the Tricolor then made a huge effort to increase their lead, but they were balked by an equally determined Varsity team, who made their yards on two downs immediately afterwards. It looked like a Varsity comeback, until the big break of the game took place. On their second down, Toronto tried a backfield run through left wing, but the ball-carrier met a stone wall line defence, and the ball was jerked out of his hand, and pounced upon as it rolled away, by a Queen's wing. Queen's were then on the Toronto 40, and galvanizing themselves once more into action, they succeeded in making their yards in three line bucks. For one tense moment, the crowd was in doubt, as the referee debated whether or not yards had been made, but the head linesman determined the issue in favor of Queen's. Orrin Carson's boys tried two downs but failed to gain, so Batstone kicked a beautiful high spiral to Sinclair, who could not have kicked but tried to run the ball out instead. The tricolor wings were upon him, and downed him in no uncertain manner for third point of the game. Score was now 3-0, with six minutes to go.

Toronto tried valiantly enough from them on, and succeeded in bringing the ball down into Queen's territory, but failed to make anything of their advantage. On their kicks, the old reliables, Batstone, and Warren, were two clever and ran back two attempts at rouges.

The game ended with the ball at centre field.

At the beginning of the game, it was evident that Queen's were out to impress. One of their first plays when they got onto the field was to make a spectacular pass, Batstone to Britton, for a gain of ten yards. It was a long chance, and gave Queen's enough confidence to get three first downs in succession, through heavy line plunging. The 216-lb. baby, Kilgour, was used early, and proved a hard man to stop when he dove through the middle. In the opening three minutes, the Queen's men gained all the confidence they needed through this successful attack. To round out their gains, Queen's quarterback gave the ball to Boston for an end run, and he passed to Warren for a total gain of thirty yards. Sinclair got the kick, and Varsity gained nine yards on two downs. Sinclair kicked a wonderful 66-yard spiral to Queen's 15, and Batstone returning with a 50 yards kick to Toronto's 10. On a kick, Warren tumbled, and Toronto recovered at the 55.

At this point, Varsity had a chance to rouse on ten occasions, but Sinclair lost his chance by kicking far to the left, right into the stands.

There were several outstanding players on both teams. Liz Walker was undoubtedly the best tackler on the field; he played a game which was better than usual, even for the rough and ready Queen's wing man. Batstone and his Understudy, Warren, of course, were in on all the backfield work, and performed well. Warren is playing better every game. Sutton, until he was injured in the third period, was drawing the attention of the crowd, and many were the groans of the undergraduates when he was carried off.

For Toronto Sinclair, put on a marvellous performance. He is not yet filling to capacity the shoes of Snyder, but the boy is coming along, and is now one of the best backfielders in rugby. He needs experience in tough situations but next year—

Two O.R.U. men, who were added to the squad were very helpful, and will remain on the team. They are Harrison and Morgan, the first of which played a consistent game at middle wing.

LATE NIGHTS FORBIDDEN

Marquette University Men Must be in by Eleven

(By Exchange Service)

Curfew in this year will be enforced for Marquette's and ladies will be expected to cooperate with University authorities in seeing that students do not stay out to late at night, according to a statement given out Tuesday, Sept. 20, by Mrs. Margaret Harrington dean of women.

Students will be expected to be in their rooms by eleven o'clock," says the dean, "except in the event of school dances or other special occasions when they will register in their own handwriting on leaving and upon returning to their houses."

Proprietors of rooming houses at which Marquette students stay, will this year for the first time be provided with copies of the booklet, "Information to Undergraduate Students." The booklet, published by University authorities, is concerned with studies, activities and organizations in addition to an entire section which is devoted to disciplinary measures. According to Mrs. Harrington rules 95 and 102, which deal with house conditions and closing hours, will be particularly stressed by approved rooming houses.

Barehanded!

THE children of the unfit and the unfortunate — what lies ahead of them?

Existence is a struggle with high rewards for those who win — laughter, comfort, praise, adventure — to which some privileged ones look forward with delight; confident because of some twenty years of training — which others made possible.

They go into the battle, armed.

But those weak and defenceless ones — the under-privileged. No background of home training for them, little schooling, no college, no apprenticeship.

Life thrusts them into the struggle immature, unfit, untrained, — barehanded!

Shall we not do chivalrously what little lies in our power to give them at least a sporting chance for their lives?

In Montreal, thirty-one agencies of charity, (of chivalry, if you will) are amalgamated financially into Federated Charities which every year makes a concerted effort to collect funds to maintain these various and varied activities of protection and amelioration.

Your contribution, large or small, will be used wisely to aid those gripped cruelly in the clutch of circumstance. And it is needed so badly.

McGILL SECONDS DEFEAT BISHOPS'

Intermediate Rugby Squad
Scores 14 to 9 Win

JUNIORS LOST

Fumbles Predominate in Game Which Purple and White Win, 7-2

The McGill Intermediates won a tight game from Bishops' at the Stadium on Saturday by 14-9. They thus secured sweet revenge for the 14-1 trouncing they received earlier in the season from the purple and white squad.

The football was of a very mediocre brand, with fumbles the deciding factors in the play. McGill were undoubtedly the better team but mis-uses in the backfield left the outcome very much in doubt until the final quarter, when the redmen gradually forged ahead.

Bishops' assumed the lead in the first quarter by means of a field goal but McGill replied in the next period with a touchdown by Blondell and a safety leaving the score at halftime: McGill 7, Bishops' 5.

The Lennoxville team went on the offensive after the interval and finally scored after a fine run by Dinan, their brilliant halfback. From then on the game tightened up, and at the beginning of the fourth quarter the score was deadlocked at 9-all. Then came the break. A McGill kick was blocked deep in Bishops' territory, but a red wing scooped up the ball and raced across the line for a touch.

Simpson and Swabey were prominent on the McGill backfield, while White, Blondell and Faulkner were the pick of the line. Klein and Dinan turned in good games for the losers. O'Donnell and Bannan officiated.

The McGill line-up:—
Flying Wing Jones; Halves, Roberts, Swabey, Simpson; Quarter, Roberts; Snap, Blondell; Middles, O'Meara, Stockwell; Insides, Sise, Walliver; Outsides, White, Halpenny.

Juniors Lose Close Game
The McGill Juniors lost a tough game to the Bishops' seconds on the Campus on Saturday morning by a 7-2 score.

The red and white representatives had better than an even break on the play, but costly fumbles with down-right hard back combined to rob them of victory.

Bishops' scored two touchdowns in the first quarter and then fell on a loose ball for a touch in the second to leave the score 7-0 at half-time.

McGill improved after the interval and McNellie kicked two touchdowns but they were never able to quite put over the necessary points.

When new machines had to be invented so that production might be increased. Now there are the young men and their machines so that there is a greater production. In the war also the price of coal became so dear that the other countries had to find ways and means to obtain power. Water power developed in France; lignite was used in Germany; intensified production came from the mines in North America after the war; in France and Switzerland the railroads were electrified; also in South America, thus each country was using less and had more to sell, so that there came a cut-throat competition. Thus the owners called for cheaper production and in spite of all the evidence against them the Government increased the hours of working, with a result that in the month of 1927 there was more coal produced than in the periods previous to the war. There came then a position where 200,000 men were immediately rendered unemployed.

Referring to the Trade Dispute Act of 1927 the speaker said that even the Attorney-General does not know how the drafting of the words 'within the same trade or industry' can be interpreted. The Trade Unions have always asserted the elementary right to strike, but now the ambiguity and indefiniteness of the Act has paralysed the leaders of the men in the organization of a strike. It is a tribute to the British workers that in such an ordeal and tension there was no deliberate militant action. Their solidarity was shown in the nine days general strike but by far the greatest thing demonstrated was the law abiding disposition of the workers.
